Welcome to Leeds Alabama

Are you stuck between wanting to live in a friendly small town, but also yearning for all of the modern amenities of the big city, like abundant shopping, great entertainment, and convenient interstate access? If this sounds like you, Leeds, Alabama just may be your dream city.

Leeds Alabama is Your Dream City

Nestled just 17 miles from downtown Birmingham, Leeds is a tri-county municipality, straddling the borders of Jefferson, Shelby, and St Clair counties. It's incredibly convenient to I-20 and I-59, as well as the Birmingham International Airport, but maintains enough distance to be isolated from the traffic and the issues that tend to come along with living in "the city". You can easily be in larger cities like Birmingham and Atlanta in minutes.

Pleased with the financial state of the City of Leeds, Miller says Leeds has an A+ to AA bond rating. “That is unheard of for a municipality of our size,” Miller said.

Eager to extend a warm welcome to new businesses and continuing great working relationships with long-time Leeds businesses is one of the many reasons Leeds is thriving. Many of our downtown businesses have taken advantage of the Leeds Redevelopment Authority matching grants to upgrade or repair their business facades. Our Downtown Redevelopment plan has improved the appearance and safety of our downtown area. New businesses are opening downtown and new storefronts continue to open at The Outlet Shops of Grand River.

Honored to be one of only 17 cities in our great state to be named an Alabama Community of Excellence, Miller could not be happier that Leeds is a city that's on the move. “We're excited to have a lot of activity going on in the right direction,” Miller said. “Leeds is open for business.”

The City of Leeds was recently named third in the state for future wealth growth by the Birmingham Business Journal and came in fifth on www.movein.org for places young professionals want to live.
